V.	Information concerning the scope of the provisional refusal:  Total provisional refusal affects all the services.
VI.	Grounds for refusal [(where applicable, see item VII)]: Motives for refuse: The mark applied for is a word mark and consists exclusively of the words “euro” and premium”, written as one word. According to Merriam-webster.com the meaning of “euro” is “Europe, European” and the meaning of “premium” is defined as: “a high or extra value” (information extracted from Oxford dictionaries on 30/11/2017). The goods covered by the applied mark are in classes 1, 2 and 19. They are aimed at both the average consumer who is well-informed, observant and careful when choosing the desired product or service as well as at professionals whose awareness is higher. Both words "euro" and "premium" are used and understood by the Bulgarian consumers. Taken as a whole, the words “EuroPremium” immediately inform the consumers without further reflection that the goods applied for are of superior quality and therefore more expensive and confirm with European standards. The mark applied for consists only of verbal elements, which are descriptive in respect of the goods for which protection is sought and dos not contain anything that can contribute to its distinctiveness. The relevant public will perceive this expression only as promotional laudatory message, the function of which is to highlight the qualities of the goods concerned. Therefore, taken as a whole, the mark “EuroPremium” is devoid of distinctive character. The word elements “euro” and premium” must be kept free for all competitors.
