VIII. A sign shall not be granted trade mark protection if its registration was applied for in bad faith. A sign shall not be granted trade mark protection if because of its identity with, or similarity to, the earlier trade mark and the identity or similarity of the goods or services covered by the trade mark, there exists a likelihood of confusion on the part of the consumers; including the case where the likelihood of confusion is present because consumers may link the sign to the earlier trade mark by way of association. A sign shall not be granted trade mark protection if its date of priority is of a later date than that of an earlier, identical or similar trade mark which has a reputation in Hungary, or, in the case of an EU trade mark, in the European Union, irrespective of whether the goods or services for which it is applied are identical with, or similar to, those for which the earlier trade mark is registered, where use of that sign without due cause would be detrimental to, or take unfair advantage of, the distinctive character or the repute of the trade mark with a reputation.

The Hungarian Intellectual Property Office shall send such notification to the International Bureau after the decision on final refusal or on partial recognition of the protection has become final and binding. If trade mark protection is recognised in part, the date of registration shall be the date of the decision.
If the applicant fails to reply, within the fixed time limit, to an invitation of the Hungarian Intellectual Property Office issued solely upon an opposition, the Hungarian Intellectual Property Office shall decide on the registration of the trade mark on the basis of the available information, and shall notify the International Bureau accordingly, sending either a notification on the final refusal or a notification made in accordance with paragraph (5e).

WARNING: In case of an opposition, the expenses arisen in connection with the opposition can be imposed on the losing party by the Hungarian Intellectual Property Office. The amount shall be found in the HIPO's decision.

-Act XI of 1997 on the Protection of Trademarks and Geographical Indications (extract)

Article 1(1) Trademark protection shall be granted for any signs capable of being represented graphically provided that these are capable of distinguishing goods or services from those of other undertakings.

(2) Signs which may be granted trademark protection are in particular:

- (a) words, combination of words, including personal names and slogans,
- (b) letters, numerals,
- (c) figures, pictures,
- (d) two- or three-dimensional forms, including the shape of goods or of their packaging,
- (e) colors, combination of colors, light signals, holograms,
- (f) sound signals, and
- (g) combination of signs under (a) to (f).

Article 2 (1) A sign may not be granted trademark protection if it does not meet the requirements of Article 1.

(2) A sign shall be excluded from trademark protection if:

(a) it is devoid of any distinctive character, in particular if it consists exclusively of signs or indications which may serve, in trade, to designate the kind, quality, quantity, intended purpose, value, geographical origin or the time of production of the goods or of rendering of the service, or other characteristics of the goods or services, or which have become customary in the current language or in the practices of trade;

(b) it consists exclusively of a shape which results from the nature of the goods themselves or which is necessary to obtain a technical result or which gives substantial value to the goods.

(3) A sign shall not be excluded from trademark protection in accordance with paragraph (2)(a) if, either before or after the date of priority, it has acquired a distinctive character.

Article 3 (1) A sign may not be granted trademark protection if:

- (a) it is contrary to public policy or to accepted principles of morality;
- (b) it is liable to deceive consumers as to the nature, quality, geographical origin or other characteristics of the goods or services;
- (c) its registration was applied for in bad faith.

(2) A sign shall be excluded from trademark protection if:

(a) it consists exclusively of State emblems or other emblems of an authority or international organization as defined in the Paris Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property;

(b) it relates to medals, badges, armorial bearings, not covered by subparagraph (a) above, or to official signs and hallmarks indicating control and warranty which are of public interest;

(c) it consists of symbols having a close relation to religious or other beliefs.

(3) Trademark protection shall be granted with the consent of the competent authority to signs of which the emblems defined under paragraph 2 (a) and (b) form only an element.

(4) A sign may not be granted trademark protection if it consists of or contains a geographical indication registered pursuant to this Act or to European Community law. This provision shall apply to goods which do not originate in a geographical area corresponding to the geographical indication or in connection with which the geographical indication cannot be used for any other reason on the basis of the provisions of this Act or of European Community law.

Article 4 (1) A sign may not be granted trademark protection:

(a) with respect to identical goods or services, if the sign with the later date of priority is identical with an earlier trademark;

(b) if because of its identity with or similarity to the earlier trademark and the identity or similarity of the goods or services there exists a likelihood of confusion on the part of the consumers;

(c) with respect to dissimilar goods or services if the sign with the later date of priority is identical with or similar to an earlier trademark having a reputation in the country where the use without due cause of the later sign would take unfair advantage of or be detrimental to the distinctive character or the repute of the earlier trademark.

(2) "Earlier trademark" means a trademark whose registration was applied for with an earlier date of priority or – for the purposes of paragraph (1)(a) and (b) – a sign which has become well-known at an earlier date in the country under the Paris Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property even if that sign is not registered. "Earlier trademark" shall also mean – depending on the registration of the sign – an earlier trademark application.

(3) A sign may not be refused trademark protection if it conflicts with an earlier trademark, which has not been used by the holder in accordance with the provisions of Article 18.

(4) For the purposes of this Act, the likelihood of confusion includes the likelihood of association with the earlier trademark.

Article (5) A sign may not be granted trademark protection:

(a) if it would infringe earlier personal rights of others, in particular a right in a name or of personal portrayal;

(b) if it would conflict with an earlier copyright or industrial property right of others, including conflict with the name of a protected plant variety.

(2) A sign shall not be granted trademark protection

(a) if it has been used effectively in the country without registration where the use of the sign without the consent of the prior user would be contrary to law; and

(b) if, with respect to identical or similar goods or services, it is identical with or similar to a trademark whose protection has lapsed by reason of expiration and less than two years have elapsed since the lapse, unless the earlier trademark had not been used in conformity with the provisions of Article 18.

(3) In determining whether a right, use or expiration is deemed as earlier within the meaning of paragraphs (1) and (2), the priority of the application for registration shall be taken into account.

Article (6) A sign shall be excluded from trademark protection if the representative or agent applies for registration in his own name without the holder's authorization, unless the representative or agent justifies his action.

Article 7(1) A sign may not be refused trademark protection in accordance with Articles 4 and 5 if the holder of the earlier right consents to the registration of the later sign.

(2) A declaration of consent shall be valid if drawn up as a public instrument or a private document providing sufficient evidence.

(3) A declaration of consent may be contested under those provisions of the Civil Code that concern actions for avoidance of a contract by reason of mistake, deception or threat; the declaration may not be withdrawn and may not be replaced by the decision of a Court.

Article 8(1) Trademark protection shall be granted for a sign if

(a) it satisfies the requirements of Article 1 and is not excluded from trademark protection under the terms of Articles 2 to 7 and

(b) the relevant application complies with the requirements laid down by this Act.
