VI. Grounds for refusal [(where applicable, see item VII)]:

GROUND

The mark in this application is considered unregistrable due to its lack of distinctive characteristics, according to the Trademarks Act (No. 3), B.E. 2559, sections 6 and 7.

The mark consists of a picture of a bottle with a semicircle glass stopper and a metal base stand, which is considered merely a simple bottle used for containing liquid. This picture, when used in connection with the applicant's good in class 33, alcoholic beverages (with the exception of beers), can imply the nature of the goods in liquid form is suitable for keeping in a bottle. As a result, the mark is considered to have direct reference to the goods' character and qualification and causes a lack of trademark distinctiveness according to the Thailand Trademark Act, Section 7, Paragraph 2 (9).

The mark also consists of the French word "L'OR," which means gold, or gold color. It is considered a general descriptive word relating to a name of color that is not capable of distinguishing the applicant's goods from others and does not enable the public or users to recognize it as a trademark. As a result, the mark is deemed to lack trademark distinctiveness under Trademark Act Section 7, paragraph 1.

Finally, the mark consists of the word "JEAN MARTELL," which is the name and surname of the founder of a well-known cognac distilling house in France. Such a name was presented in the simple standard font generally used for the document, not in any special manner. As a result, the mark is deemed to lack trademark distinctiveness under Trademark Act Section 7, paragraph 2 (1).
